Forty Per Cent Slash in Allotment of Motor Fuel To Holders of "T" Cards is Ordered

OPA AGENTS ARE BUSY

Washington, May 24.—(P)—Further restrictions on the use of gasoline by commercial vehicles in the east curtailed bus service, took away taxis off the streets and cut down the delivery of non-essential commodities such as beer, liquor and soft drinks today in the allotment of motor fuel to holders of "T" ration cards—trucks, buses and cabs—was announced by the Office of Defense Transportation for the weekend.

ODT and Office of Price Administration agents started enforcing the order today to eliminate all non-essential driving in the 12 northeastern states—from Maine to Virginia—where gasoline supplies are at record lows.

The 40 per cent cut is an overall figure applicable to the mileage of all commercial vehicles. Some buses and trucks serving production centers and military establishments, for instance, may be reduced only about 10 per cent. Gasoline allotments for trucks delivering non-essential goods may be pared as much as 80 per cent.

The War Production Board is preparing a priority list for commercial vehicles for the guidance of ODT field agents in applying the 40 per cent reduction order. ODT closed it would issue a regulation effective Thursday, drastically curtailing truck deliveries of "less essential commodities."

ODT told bus and cab operators they should eliminate service "not vital to the war effort." Both buses and cabs are regarded as essential vehicles, the agency said, but they could do away with all unnecessary mileage.

Philadelphia, May 24.—(P)—More than 600 eastern Pennsylvania motorists today were cited for appearances before Office of Price Administration examiners in the wake of an intensive weekend roundup on pleasure driving.

Despite the fact that travel on city streets and rural highways stopped to a fraction of the volume a week ago prior to reinstitution of the OPA ban, agents reported finding many apparent violations yesterday.

Pittsburgh, May 24.—(P)—The Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company today announced elimination of five bus routes in Pittsburgh and suburbs under the ODT 40 per cent reduction in fuel for "T" ration book owners.

The company said the lines to be discontinued tomorrow are those which have alternative means of service. The firm curtailed nine other routes, while 12 lines were not affected.

State Dinner For Davies In The Kremlin

President's Envoy Suggests Not Rebuilding Stalingrad on Present Site

FILM IS WITNESSED

BY EDDIE GILMORE
Moscow, May 24.—(P)—Joseph E. Davies, honored at a lengthy state dinner given by Premier Stalin last night in the Kremlin, proposed that the Russians not rebuild Stalingrad on its present site but leave the gallant Volga city as a memorial and a lesson to people yet unborn.

The president's personal envoy to Stalin suggested that a new Stalingrad be built five or six miles up or down the Volga from its present ruins.

Davies spoke for 20 minutes and disclosed that he had first made this suggestion to another old friend, Marshal Klement Voroshilov.

Admiral William H. Standley, U. S. Ambassador, made one of the most impressive toasts to the friendship and cooperation were a two-way affair.

The guests witnessed the American motion picture "Mission to Moscow," an adaptation of Davies' own book. The picture was brought to the Soviet Union by Maxim Litvinoff, Russian ambassador to the United States, who has just returned to Moscow.

There still was no indication of the contents of the president's letter to Stalin and it was unknown how long Davies expected to remain in Moscow before departing with the premier's reply.

Davies, who has been in such poor health that he was accompanied by his personal physician, has shown no apparent strain from his lengthy trip.

14 DEAD IN NEW JERSEY PENNSYCRASH

Crack Passenger Train With Nearly 1,300 Aboard Leaves Rails On a Curve

AT LEAST 89 ARE HURT

Delair, N. J., May 24.—(P)—A crack Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train, roaring north from Atlantic City to New York with nearly 1,300 passengers homeward bound after a weekend at the shore, wrecked on a curve in this southern New Jersey community last night, killing 14 persons and injuring at least 89 others.

At the break of dawn today, weary workers gave up the search for more bodies and turned to the task of clearing the right of way, blocked since the crash at 10:08 p. m.

In and two hospitals in Camden, three miles south of Delair, police and railroad officials in Camden three miles south of Delair, police and railroad officials began the grim task of attempting to identify nine horribly mangled bodies, including those of a mother and child to which she gave birth in the wreck. Both were decapitated.

Railroad officials said cause of the wreck—wreck on the Pennsylvania line—was not known. The railroad and local authorities launched an investigation. It was expected the Federal Bureau of Investigation also would make an inquiry since many of the passengers on the train were members of the armed forces.

Most of the passengers only a few hours before had been enjoying a gay holiday at shore resorts. Many had just left sons and sweethearts stationed at Atlantic City.

The engine, pulling a 15-car train, left the rails on a sharp curve, plunged down an embankment, dragging four of the cars behind it.

All the cars formerly were pullmans and had been converted to coaches by installation of wooden seats.

Police, railroad crews and Civilian Defense Volunteers struggled to aid the injured and rescue trapped passengers. For five hours workers using acetylene torches cut into the wrecked first car, seeking additional bodies. Then two huge cranes pulled the car away from another, lifted it, and four bodies dropped out. They were crushed so badly that attempts at identification were confined to a search of their possessions.

Someone screamed "fire" as wisps of steam curled through the car from the shattered engine. Women shrieked in panic as everyone fought to get out. Then cool-headed soldiers restored order, began helping the safe and the injured outside.

MINE PITS IN STATE ARE BACK TO NORMAL

Pittsburgh, May 24.—(P)—With all Pennsylvania soft coal mines back at work, eyes turned toward Washington where tomorrow the War Labor Board is expected to hand down a decision on the miners' wage dispute.

Last pit to get back to normal was Montour No. 10 of the Pittsburgh Coal Co., at Liberty, where 260 workers walked out Saturday in a disagreement over four maintenance men.

A. P. Writer In Prison Camp

Pittsburgh, May 24.—(P)—Mrs. Sarah Jane Cronin of Pittsburgh has received word that her son, Raymond P. Cronin, Jr., former chief of the Associated Press bureau in Manila, is in a Japanese prison camp.

It was the first word Mrs. Cronin had received from him since the fall of Manila.

The message came in the form of a broadcast from Tokyo short-wave radio, picked up by a Hopkins, Minn., man.

"Mary and I are in Santo Tomas internment camp, Manila, safe, well and enjoying life as much as possible," Cronin said. "We lost some weight but all in all are O. K."

Before going to Manila, Cronin was correspondent of the Pittsburgh bureau and chief of the Columbus bureau of the Associated Press.

Officials Ready to Crack Down On Local Violators

Jerry A. Logan, of the Petroleum Advisory Board, E. H. Ley, of the Rationing Board, and George E. Haehn, chief of police, this morning conferred with the Times-Mirror editorial force relative to the gasoline situation in this community. As a result people are warned that unless they observe the ban on pleasure driving dire results will follow.

Mr. Logan stated that there is a gasoline shortage of most serious proportions. "The breaking of the big 24-inch pipeline in the Arkansas river has taken 200,000 barrels per day out of District 1 (in which Warren county is situated) and there is danger that most of the gasoline stations in Warren will be forced to close soon. Two of the larger gasoline companies closed all of their stations in Buffalo due to the shortage. The United Refinery has no option as to where to sell their gasoline—they act on government allocations and we would not be surprised to be directed within the next few days to allocate all of our gasoline to agricultural districts. Furthermore unless the situation improves all A cards will be revoked."

Mr. Ley stated for the Ration Board: "We will pick up all books at once upon the owners being reported to the Ration Board."

Chief Haehn has not as yet been directed to check cars but anticipates such orders hourly and the police will be turned loose as soon as such orders are received.

The situation is desperate and motorists must cooperate or action will be taken that will prove most drastic.

No Agreement On Tax Bill Compromise

Joint Conference Committee Schedules Another Meeting Tuesday

MORE MONEY NEEDED

Washington, May 24.—(P)—A joint conference committee failed again today to reach any compromise of senate and house differences on pay-as-you-go taxes, but scheduled another meeting tomorrow morning.

Democratic members from both houses arranged to meet later in further attempts to agree on a compromise which they might be able to vote through the conference over the objections of the Republican supporters of a modified version of the Ruml skip-a-year legislation passed by the senate.

Republicans were reported to have demanded in today's conference that the issue once again be submitted to the house, which has defeated the Ruml plan three times by relatively narrow margins, but Democratic house conferees would not agree.

If an attempt to settle senate-house differences over pay-as-you-go legislation fails, Senator Walsh (D-Mass) declared today, congress may be forced to go to work immediately on a new revenue bill to impose substantially higher income rates.

NUMBER OF DRIVERS IN STATE REDUCED

Pittsburgh, May 24.—(P)—Western Pennsylvania has found only one automobile on the highways today where last week it had four, Louis G. Feldman, chief OPA inspector here, announced.

A new threat to illegal driving may cut the number further: Feldman said there is a possibility of federal court action against "several motorists" found in unlawful possession of C, R and T gas ration coupons.

OPA workers lifted more than 100 ration books in a weekend drive in which hundreds of suspects were stopped and questioned.

Coffee Drinkers Are Given Good News in OPA Report

Washington, May 24.—(P)—Coffee drinkers received good news today from the Office of Price Administration—the next allotment will be the largest since rationing started.

Stamp No. 24, valid May 31, will provide for one pound of coffee through June 30, or for 30 days.

Previously the ration has never exceeded one pound for five weeks. Once it dropped to a pound for six weeks.

Price Administrator Prentiss Brown said the rationing boost was due to an increase in the supply of green coffee in this country.

OPA also authorized Louisiana sugar refiners to serve "deficit" areas of western New York and western Pennsylvania because sugar receipts at Gulf ports are ahead of estimates.

WORKERS ARE RETURNING IN MANY PLANTS

Back-To-Work Movement Restores Production in Some Units of the Chrysler Corp.

COAL DISPUTE WAGES

Back-to-work movements restored war production today to all of a half-dozen struck plants of the Chrysler Corporation and to two of four major rubber companies as the War Labor Board pressed toward a final decision in the soft coal dispute.

Some 30,000 CIO unionists remained idle at the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co., and the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co., at Akron, although workers at the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and the General Tire and Rubber Co. were returning to their jobs after a week-end work stoppage precipitated by a WLB wage decision.

The Chrysler walkout, which began last Thursday and ultimately left 24,000 workers idle, was ended formally yesterday by a back-to-work vote of two CIO-United Automobile Workers locals at Detroit. Most of the strikers had ignored a regional WLB order to return to work Saturday. A company spokesman said the day shifts reported for work at about full strength although absenteeism was "little over normal."

In Washington the WLB, despite a special Sunday session, ruled out any possibility of deciding the coal case before tomorrow night at the earliest. A detailed report from a three-man fact-finding panel, laying much stress on the miners' demand for portal-to-portal, (Turn to Page Seven)

Further Unity Talks Favored By the A. F. L.

BY JOSEPH A. LOFTUS
Washington, May 24.—(P)—The American Federation of Labor executive council has authorized further unity talks with the CIO, at the same time vetoing a White House move to promote a cordial front between the two organizations.

AFL sources disclosed that the executive council rejected an administration proposal that President William Green and CIO President Philip Murray pay a joint fraternal visit to organized labor in England. The council concluded a week-long meeting on Saturday.

The joint committee held its first meeting in this country last January and another is tentatively scheduled for London in July. A council member said a Green-Murray trip would give the CIO the equal recognition which the AFL refused to give it on the Anglo-American committee.

The prospective return of John L. Lewis and his United Mine Workers to the federation may hasten the day of a unified labor movement.

4 Drownings GOP Organization to Buck Are Reported McClure In Delaware County

By the Associated Press
A mother, two or her children and a companion drowned in one of Pennsylvania's worst accidents of the weekend.

Altogether 10 persons lost their lives throughout the state.

Mrs. Ruth Kelley, 41, her son, Arthur, Jr., her daughter, Mrs. Betty Spinkie, 22, all of Sunbury, and Frank Dallabrida, 39, of Kulpmont, drowned when their boat overturned 50 feet from the shore at River Beach, seven miles north of Sunbury.

Drownings also accounted for two other deaths. Eugene Holt, 70, a firetower caretaker, fell into Clara creek, near Coudersport. At New Providence, Glenn Shaeffer, 9, stumbled into an abandoned ore mine filled with 10 feet of water.

Greatest Air Raid Of War Is Made By Mighty RAF Fleet

By CARL C. CRANMER
Associated Press War Editor

A mighty fleet of RAF bombers made the greatest air attack of history last night, dropping more than 2,000 tons of bombs on the rail and canal hub of hard-hit Dortmund in the German Ruhr less than a week after Prime Minister Churchill had hinted that the Allies might try to knock the Reich out of the war with their air power.

While Dortmund, a large portion of which already had been wiped out in a terrific attack May 4 when 1,350 tons of bombs were splashed on the city, shuddered from the impact of this latest blow, other Allied bombers maintained their morale-shattering assaults on Italy and her stepping stone islands. The Mediterranean attacks were concentrated on the rocky little island of Pantelleria which Italy has attempted to turn into a Malta, and on San Giovanni, at the toe of the Italian boot.

Headlines from other war theaters told the following story: Aleutians—The Japanese made their first counter-effort to disrupt the American attack on Attu, sending 15 twin-engine bombers in an unsuccessful attack against two warships hammering the rocky island, the navy announced yesterday. American troops still were engaged in mopping up three isolated pockets of Japanese resistance.

China—Semi-official Chinese sources declared the Japanese were making preparations for what appeared to be a large-scale offensive along the Yangtze river and aimed perhaps at Chungking itself.

Russia—Active reconnaissance, often the forerunner of large-scale offensive, in four sectors was announced by the Russians, possibly indicating that violent action might soon burst forth on the long front.

Among the neutrals, dispatches from Ankara said Turkey may soon appoint an ambassador to the Greek government in exile, an indication that the Turks believe the Greek government eventually will return to its native capital after Allied success.

More than 2,000 tons of bombs blasted Dortmund, menaced only last week by dam-loosening raids which sent flood waters roaring down the Ruhr, the air ministry said.

This far exceeded the previous record weight of explosives dropped by the RAF in a single raid when more than 1,500 tons were rained on nearby Duisburg, another vital railway center on the main lines between Berlin and Paris, on the night of May 12.

Smoke clouds billowed up 15,000 feet as the hundreds of bombers descended on the city of 500,000 population, and loosed their scores of blockbusters and tens of thousands of incendiaries.

From the giant attack 38 of the RAF's big bombers failed to return.

The attack marked resumption of the RAF's mass assaults after an unexplained layoff of several nights of good weather in which Mosquito raids on Berlin on three successive nights were the main offensive activity.

Last night's attack followed a daylight bombing of the coke ovens at Zebrugg, Belgium, by the RAF's Venturas and rooftop attacks by German fighter-bombers on towns on England's coast, identified by the Germans as Hastings, Bournemouth and Sunderland. Hotels, stores and churches were hit by bombs and machinegun bullets and many dead were pulled from wrecked buildings.

Time to Apply For Ration Book No. 3

Philadelphia, May 24.—(P)—Pennsylvania residents were under instructions from the Office of Price Administration today to fill out and return as rapidly as possible their applications for Ration Book No. 3.

Most Keystone State residents already have received the forms, with instructions to return them between June 1 and 15, the policy which is to be followed nationally. However, since some 50,000 Philadelphia school children will process the applications here, OPA asked for earlier returns in order that the work can be completed before schools close.

1942 primary, Martin said after his election there would be no reprisals.

McClure backed U. S. Senator James J. Davis for the Republican gubernatorial nomination against Martin, the state organization's candidate. Davis comes up for re-election next year and Heyburn is mentioned as a potential candidate for his place. State Republican Chairman M. Harvey Taylor also has been discussed.

The Delaware county fight will share attention with the Philadelphia contest for election of a mayor only a year after Martin won out there in a nip and tuck gubernatorial race. Most counties will elect some officers while a scattering of local option votes on liquor and beer are expected.

Blackout Was Best Ever In Whole County

The test blackout pulled unexpectedly last night from 9:20 to 9:50 was perhaps the best that has ever been held in the entire county. There was less confusion and generally the public seemed to be more familiar with the various alarms as they sounded.

In Warren the sirens screamed out the first "blue" and within a very few minutes street and store as well as residence lights were all out. The air wardens and auxiliary police were promptly at their posts and the Control Center was staffed in rapid time. The Boy Scouts serving as messengers were on the job quickly and a record was made of the number of Scouts reporting last night.

Chief Air Warden Stuart issued a warning this morning on the reckless manner in which automobiles are driving during the "blue period" when traffic is allowed to move. Last night's automobiles were being driven at excessive speed and Mr. Stuart stated this morning "If this occurs on the next blackout offenders will be arrested on a reckless driving charge and the charge carried through."

Lights were on in the First National Bank during the blackout as the Control did not work properly. There was a proper control but it failed to function when pulled by the wardens. As the blackout was a "test" the wardens did not call up any of the bank officials.

Throughout the county the test worked well and in every town reports are coming in that the test was the best ever held.

Harrisburg, May 24.—(P)—Pennsylvanians experienced their 15th blackout test since last July 1 last night from 9:20 p. m., when the first blue sounded, to 9:50 p. m., when the all clear signal was given.

Officials of the State Defense Council said the 39-minute test was designed to test the cooperation of the public "just after churches had let out. The red signal came at 9:35 p. m., and the second blue at 9:50 p. m."

Several persons were injured in falls in Philadelphia, where the alert was marked by confusion and errors.

Colorado waters yielded nearly 7,000,000 trout during the 1940 fishing season.

A Cappella Choir Concert Program Delightfully Given

Much enthusiasm has been expressed by many of a large audience in attendance at the sixth annual spring concert given by the Warren High School A Cappella Choir. Members of the choir are being praised for having planned and prepared this program in the short period since their winter concert March 19th.

As the curtain opened on the first song group, "Cathedral Echoes," chimes played by Marilyn Emery were heard in the distance and the stage setting was a beautiful, lighted church window with candelabra on either side. As the tones of the chimes died away the choir approached the stage through the aisles singing the well known Crusaders' Hymn, "Fair Lord Jesus." Among the songs of this group was "Lost in the Night" by Christensen during which Dorothy Ann Harris sang a soprano solo in a pleasing manner.

The second group, "Moods in Contrast," included the lovely contralto aria, "My Heart at Thy Dear Voice" from Saint-Saens opera, "Samson and Delilah," sung with mature interpretation by Virginia Fredrickson and concluded very effectively by the choir singing the chorus part. Laverne Peterson pleased with a short solo in another song. At this time, also, the director, Carroll A. Fowler, presented pins to the graduating seniors, Marcia Baxter, Lucille Carlson, Patricia Coe, Robert Deitch, Gene Dolloff, Gordon Elmquist, Virginia Frederick-son, Gloria Genge, Ann Harrington, Dorothy Ann Harris, Norman Huck, Evadina Hunter, Bonny Johnson, Mary Ann Lundmark, Robert Lunkvist, Joan McGarry, Deane Nelson, Anna Nichols, Melba Olsen, Laverne Peterson, Martha Rasmussen, Mary Jane Schuett, Norman Schoaff, Mary Siegworth, John Swick, George Templeton, Jr., Loren Wright and Malcolm Young.

After a patriotic group which was very colorful and very well received, especially a solo by Robert Deitch, "You're a Grand Old Flag," and a unison trio, "Angels of Mercy," sung by Marcia Baxter, Gene Dolloff and Mary Ann Lundmark, the program was concluded with a group of songs entitled "Spring Reveries."

The curtain opened on a garden scene with a host and hostess receiving guests. The girls in attractive gowns and boys in spring attire created an informal scene which brought real pleasure to admiring parents and friends in the audience. The "Kashmir Song" by Woodford-Finden was sung with a fine sense of its beauty by Leroy Peck, tenor. One of the high lights of the entire program was a solo by Melba Olsen, "Spring" by Stern. She caught the spirit of her song completely and was enthusiastically applauded by the audience which demanded an encore.

Loren Wright added greatly to the effectiveness of the program with his sympathetic accompaniments of various songs.

Reports Show Defense Work Progressing

At the meeting of the Warren County Council of Defense held Friday afternoon in the office of the council some interesting reports were made relative to activities of the council. Dr. LeRoy E. Chapman was chosen as a member of the council.

Mr. Corbett reported that Warren county's goal in the scrap drive will provide the metal for three destroyers; that rag and other collections are moving in good shape and that 12 tons of tin cans are on hand for the next shipment. Over 600 pounds of tooth paste tubes have been shipped this month. His report was highly worth while. Mrs. Conarro reported 223 pounds of silk stockings shipped and the "fats" campaign was taking on added interest.

Mr. Wygan reported on the observance of "An American Day" in Sheffield and in the local churches.

Other reports showed the routine work going on in good shape.

Mr. Gibson stated that a panel demonstration would be given in Sheffield June 14 and in Warren on June 15. This promises to be an event of interest.

Mr. Johnson's report on Victory Gardens showed 1370 were laid out and under cultivation in the borough.

CARNIVAL MOVED ON

After a week here under the eye of the State Police who squelched all gambling and lewd shows at the request of the county officials the Carnival which pitched its tents on the South Side moved to Westleyville yesterday. It has been announced that shows of the kind will be given the state police treatment in the future and it is to be hoped that this detours local organizations from booking in such attractions. The owner of the land whereon the shows pitch has been requested not to rent the ground to similar shows which provide poor entertainment and are not a desirable form of shows in any sense of the word.

SPECIAL MASS HELD

At a special mass held at St. Joseph's church Sunday morning at 7:45, the members of Warren Council, Knights of Columbus, attended in a body and received Holy Communion. The celebrant at the mass, Rev. Clement C. Engert, C. S. R., professor of Latin and Greek and director of music at St. Mary's College, North East, Father Englert was also the speaker at the Communion breakfast held in the club rooms of the Knights. Father Englert has traveled extensively and when the United States declared war on Germany he was located in Luxembourg. A description of his experience in getting back to the United States, and his remarks in general were interesting and well received by the members of the local organization.

FRANK P. CARO
Frank P. Caro, one of the community's oldest residents and long a familiar figure on its streets, passed away at 5:10 a. m. today in the Warren General Hospital, where he had been a patient for the past 14 months.

One of the oldest members of the barbering profession in Warren, Mr. Caro was forced to give up that work some years ago when he became blind. For many years he had worked faithfully as a missionary among the Seneca Indians and was one of the first persons to be adopted into the tribe.

Removal has been made to the Peterson Funeral Home, where friends may call. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Spring Production of Warren Players' Club Up to Par Set in Many Previous Performances

Friday night reports from "Watch on the Rhine" would indicate that the very able Warren Players' cast really hit its stride in the second performance and bore out the prediction that the production was one worthy of a capacity house.

Headed by Marie Hamilton, the cast was a particularly well chosen one that presented faces both old and new to Players' audiences. In it were Gony and Hans Link, Don Folkman, Anne Krantz, Leo Driscoll, Astrid Cowden, Mac Kinander, Duane Wilder, Toni Hamilton and Wilmer Latshaw.

Dealing with the complex situation of an entire family circle dominated and influenced by the evils of a far-away Nazi system, without the introduction of a single Nazi in the cast, the plot is one which deals with many nationalities and their reactions to the yoke of fear and oppression. Ruined even was the quiet life of the Farrelly family and home, located in the country a few miles from the nation's capital. This home, as presented on the Woman's Club stage, was the work of a staff composed of Lester Muth, Lester Criswell, S. M. McClure, George and Margaret Wholeben, Betty Ridsperger, Mary Helen Johnson, Edna Glasser and William Dashed, with Guinevere Knapp in charge of lighting; Fern Mostert as stage manager; Helene McClure, Maybelle Alexander, Ann Walker, Rowell Hoff and Walter Armstrong, box office chairman; Sigworth responsible for properties; Kathryn Martin, make-up; Katherine Hutchinson, Patty Smith and Alice Schellhammer, costumes.

Assisting Mrs. Huff as director was Millie Kopp as program committee advisor and Joan Laverty as book holder. On the business aide of the production personnel were Jeanne Lopez, in charge of publicity; Eva Carol Smith, business manager; Evelyn Armstrong, box office chairman; Patricia Hand, in charge of scripts; Margery Lloyd, chairman of ushers and programs.

Old Pictures Get Attention In Display

The group of Warren people assembled many years ago and being shown in the window at 338 Pennsylvania avenue, west, is exciting a great deal of interest, particularly among older town-folks.

Many have found there their own photograph, the occasion of which had long since been forgotten; the picture of friends departed, some recognized but dimly from the pages of memory; and others with a more vivid and loving recollection.

The picture is being shown by the Veterans of Foreign Wars in their contest to secure the names of 25 men and 25 women of 17 years and older who can guess nearest the correct total of individuals in the group.

A winner's name will be pinned to "The Warren Sling" as presented by that person, to some wounded soldier in the army and navy hospitals of the country. The slings may be seen at the stores of Metzger-Wright Company, Printz Company and at Stein's, where guessing blanks may be had for filling in and depositing in can located at the same places.

Glorifying the Apron

A jumper frock is a very practical garment for marketing and other family chores when you don't want to "dress up" yet don't want to look dowdy. Just how decorative a jumper frock can be is demonstrated by the new one modeled by screen actress Ann Savage in the photo at left. It's of cotton, printed with tiny green and yellow fish who are gaily riding green and purple waves. The short-sleeved blouse is of sheer white cotton.

REGIONAL HISTORY

Featured in the current number of "Americana," published quarterly by the American Historical Society, is an article by Joseph Riesenman, Jr., known to many in Warren as a well-known historian of the section, entitled "Preface to a Regional History."

For several years Mr. Riesenman has been compiling a history of northwestern Pennsylvania and eastern Ohio, and this introduction reveals a number of startling facts—at least, reviews records of a physical character which indicate that there was a race of men inhabiting this hemisphere and possessed of a culture at the same time that ancient China, Greece, Rome and historic Egypt flourished.

Mr. Riesenman ventures:

"It is well-known that a peculiar people, usually styled 'The Hysterious People,' once inhabited the interior portions of North America, including Tennessee, Ohio, Western Pennsylvania and New York. Where these people came from, who and what they were, is likely to remain one of the great, unsolved mysteries of the world. It is likely to rival the age-old inquiry as to the fate of 'The Lost Ten Tribes.'"

Mr. Riesenman recalls the discovery made by Francis Carnahan while plowing a field in Harborcreek Township in 1825. It was a strange-looking bead, which he cleaned and preserved, and it later fell into the hands of a noted archaeologist, who had no hesitation in appraising it as one of the celebrated "Chorean Beads" formerly used in religious ceremonies in ancient Egypt. Ultimately this bead found its way into the Erie public museum.

"We, therefore, must conclude," adds Mr. Riesenman, "that this region was one time the habitat of the wonderful and mysterious race of human beings who had a very numerous population, and which dominated the entire region to our west, and possibly may have had communication with the peoples of Europe. In the counties of Warren, Crawford, Venango, Clarion and, in fact, throughout the entire region, there have been found many relics of ancient inhabitants of the region. . . . The Allegheny River suggests itself as the corridor through which one group of people penetrated into western Pennsylvania and New York. This people probably flourished about 1,000 A. D."

GAVIN IN THE NEWS

(Times-Herald, Washington, D. C.)

The worthy Congressional Record tops one of its columns with the eye-arresting epithet "NUTS."

For a moment we thought the headline was a bit of journalistic sabotage, the revenge of a broad and disgusted printer who had raised the banner of revolt against a fate that condemned him to a life work of embalming in print the oratorical gems of the worthy lawmakers.

Not so. It appears that the Hon. Leon H. Gavin (R.) of Pennsylvania, picked that title for a speech which started off with some observations about juglans regia, or English walnuts, and swiftly turned to a general damnation of the "species of nuts here in Washington, doing the planning for the Surplus Food Commodity Corp. and in the Office of Price Administration, whose names will have to be determined by psychiatrists."

What started Representative Gavin off on the matter of nuts was his discovery that the surplus foods outfit here had ordered shipped free, freight pre-paid, 2,000 pounds of English walnut meat to public institutions in Onondaga County, N. Y.

The Onondaga County officials hadn't requested the nut gift, Representative Gavin learned. Walnut meat was selling there between $1.15 and $1.50 a pound. The cooks in the county home and orphanage went to work turning out nut bread, nut puddings, nut cakes, nut rolls, nut salads and just plain nuts.

At this point in his recital, Representative Gavin's voice took on the tones of the days when he was a World War one top-kick in the Sixth Division. Gavin demanded the abolition of the Capital's war-time nuts in administrative jobs—"that disturbing group of socialistic dream boys who are tearing the heart out of the nation . . . These planning bureaucrats with their crackpot, utopian ideas to regiment the nation . . . These socialistic planners who have put the economic and industrial life of the nation on the home front into a damnable mess."

Victory gardeners in Warren and farmers in the rural districts took full advantage of the sunshine of the past two days to get back to the task of getting ground in shape for planting. There is consolation, however, in the fact that gardens planted as late as early June still produce in good shape.

Just Over the Next Hill

Washington in Wartime

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Irvin S. Cobb, the "sourpuss humorist" from Paducah, Ky., has just visited Washington for the first time in nearly ten years and Washington will never be the same again.

The reason for that conclusion is that Cobb is going to do a piece or two on Wartime Washington and you can bet odds-on that he will place a few comic blisters on the nation's capital that weren't there before.

Being interviewed by a lady member of the press in his hotel lobby, Cobb complained of the drafty breezes. "Let's get out of here," he said, "there's more air here than there is in Congress."

THAT started him off on the subject of colds and Cobb can talk longer about colds than most people do when they are "Speaking of Operations." He remembers, for instance, that it was a Washington friend that directed him to a physician who used the "baking out" method of curing colds.

"When that doc got through with me," says Cobb, "all I needed was a little gray poured over me and some water cress stuck in my ears." However, it must have worked, because the Cobb didn't even have a sniffle in his big nose.

Cobb said he was glad he came to Washington because he had found that all he read in the papers wasn't exactly fact. Washington isn't really so all-fired crowded, he observed. It's just that a million people come in here every day and the same number go out. He thinks Union Station is probably the seat of the trouble and if we could get rid of that there wouldn't be so much to worry about.

Cobb has a new name for the Government Girls. He calls them "bunnies." He shakes his head sadly over the great numbers of them and says they weren't around when he was here last.

THE Prophet of Paducah was busy on the second volume of his autobiography when Japs hit Pearl Harbor. Most of the time since then, he has been visiting the Army camps with a few of his rarer after-dinner stories. In spite of his complaints about his bulk, age, and general decline in health, he probably would snap at the chance to get to any one of the fronts. Cobb was an ace war correspondent in World War I and would be again if circumstances and his years permitted.

Very few remember that there was a time when Cobb was a "Washington correspondent" but there was. In 1906, he came here to cover the wedding of Alice Roosevelt to "Nick" Longworth.

In World War I he was sent overseas by the Saturday Evening Post in the earliest days of the war. He was at one time held as a spy by the Germans. It took him six weeks to "get the hell out of there" but he was no sooner back on good American terra firma than he was off with the A.E.F. He came out of that with a French decoration as chevalier of the Legion of Honor and later picked up a reserve commission as major in the United States Army.

He probably was the first war correspondent to use the individual vignette as a method of telling the war story. He doesn't claim any credit for it, however. If you mention it, he says "humph," and points out that Zola, Hugo and Tolstoy employed the same method. That's pretty good company.

Hollywood Gossip

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—This is a story for sensitive horses. A good many horse stories lately have been of a kind to make a poor nag shudder, reading his paper over his evening oats. This story will skip all that, and tell about horses who go to drama school and make money in the movies.

We'll start with Charley Flores, who is not a horse but a friend to horses. Charley was once an extra in the westerns, but for 23 years now he has been training and casting horses for pictures.

Today he has 110 horses trained for a variety of acts. They jump hay-racks and walls, and do foot-broad jumps. It was one of his horses that jumped through a window, over a counter, and through a back door in one continuous action in "Jesse James."

Some of his horses will rear on cue whether they're carrying a rider or pulling a farm wagon or carriage, and Charley can supply a team to rear on cue together. He has a horse which lurches out loud and widely, and another that will he down and let dogs, parrots, canaries and cats and a few other household pets wander all over him.

CHARLEY and his aide, Miss Ruby Pyle, have a new horse job to undertake. Harry Sherman and 20th Century-Fox have joined forces to make a big color picture on "Buffalo Bill." That means a great part for a horse, Buffalo Bill's horse.

But it's been a long time since men really hunted buffalo in this country. Charley says that horses instinctively dislike the odor of buffalo and have to get used to it.

He has been training his own horses for many years, buying them when they are between four and eight years old. They are broken to ride by that time and sometimes to drive single and double. A few have learned to jump. After that much education, the dramatic training starts. They are trained to obey vocal commands. Charley says that a simple vocabulary when the speaker uses a calm, moderate voice.

CHARLEY is a believer in the future of the horse. War pictures with their airplanes, tanks, jeeps and other mechanized items have cut into horse opportunities in pictures, but Charley believes this is temporary. Charley and Ruby think of their horses as regular folks. Miss Pyle becomes indignant about some directors who get annoyed when a horse misses his mark by a few inches. "Actors," she says, "muff their lines and it's all right. But let a horse get an inch out of line and those directors will growl. They'd be glad if their actors did half as well."

There isn't any Screen Horses Guild, but the scale of pay is fixed. An "extra" gets $5 a day. Something a little special (like the horse who can laugh) draws a daily $25. A horse who does anything considered hazardous rates $150 a day. Mostly a horse earns about $50 a day for doing some spectacular but perfectly safe jumping.

Yanks Dislike Western Travel After Nosedive in American

Lose Six Out of Seven On Trip; St. Louis Cards and Brooklyn Both Win Two

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The major leagues are idle today and tomorrow and the New York Yankees doubtless would be glad to use this free time to help the government discourage wartime travel.

The American League champions have just completed what was to have been a grand tour of the west and they had about as much success as a motorist with four flat tires and an "A" card.

There was strictly no pleasure in their jaunt—and very little business. Of 14 schedule games, they were able to play only seven, because of weather conditions. Of the seven they did play they lost six. And besides losing their last four in a row, they lost the American League lead.

The heaviest blow fell yesterday at Cleveland as the Indians captured a double-header, 3-1 and 5-2, and moved into first place by a full game. Manager Joe McCarthy used his two best pitchers, Ernie Bonham and Spud Chandler, who hurled five-hit and six-hit ball, respectively. The Yankees were checked by southpaw pitchers—Al Smith and Chubby Dean—while the Indians bunched their blows for three runs in the third inning of the first game and four in the sixth stanza of the second game.

The upheaval in the American League was the big feature of the season's first intersectional strife. After two days off for travel, it will be resumed Wednesday, with the National League clubs playing in the west and the American League clubs in the east. Although

Boy's Club At Loss to Figure Jim's Pitches

The St. Joseph's Boys Club of Warren, after stringing along with a win streak that would be the envy of any team and of getting any really tough competition in their games, suddenly wound up over the weekend with two marked on the red side of the ledger at 15-3 and 17-0.

It was Jimmy Urbanski on the mound for the double-header yesterday and he performed the iron-man stunt of twirling both games, one a shut-out and the other a six-hitter.

Bob Luquist connected for five hits in six times at bat for the winners, while the Pirate's meal ticket, Jimmy Urbanski slapped out four, with each getting a two-bagger.

Dick Davis, second baseman for the winners, came through in the late innings yesterday for the only home run recorded in Warren so far this year with a center field wallop that couldn't be reached by anyone.

Merchants Tourney At Penn Center Finds Singles Going Over Big With Many Rolling

The singles lead by the Penn Bowling Center's Merchant-sponsored tourney changed hands twice over the week-end as Roy Hammerbeck and Harold Bjers slid the work to nearly 850 with their close counts of 849 (for lead) and 847 (for second).

Nearly 25 keggers took part in the cross-alley sweeps of the Saturday and Sunday shifts and high scores were frequent, although some of the faster competition fell short of what was expected.

George Johnson clipped off high for all-events with his follow-up of 787 for the singles.

The Warren merchant-sponsored tourney will end on Wednesday and with only three remaining days to go it is expected that many more are set to take a crack at the high scores for one of the choice prizes being offered.

AT THE MOOSE

The East Side Restaurant team of the Moose League, led by J. Clark at 541, smashed through to a win over the South Side Market to stay hot in the roll-offs at that club. Stewie Kuhre smacked 590 to no avail for the losers.

Busy Bee Restaurant clipped the Henderson Lunch crew for two of three for another top billing in the roll-offs, which continue this week.

Friday night found the Central Grocery giving the Irvins the once over and sizing them up for two of the three counters to stick to the hoop finish also.

Oscar's Restaurant also had a good night of it, with S. Cosmas nailing up 542 for them and going over the Adams Market easily.

COUNT FLEET RACES WITH ONLY 2 OTHERS

By HAROLD GLAASSEN

New York, May 24.—(P)—Even Mrs. John D. Hertz will admit that her Count Fleet isn't a beautiful colt.

But the way the budding three-year-old turf champion frightens his rivals is a caution.

At Belmont's 68th running of the Withers Mile Saturday the $750 prize for fourth actually went unclaimed, as only two colts had the courage to compete with the Count.

Mr. One-to-twenty immediately showed he agreed with the majority by winning with a six-length advantage and doing the distance in 1:36 on a slow track. In the mutuels he returning the absolute minimum of $2.10 for $2.

W. E. Boeing's Slide Rule won $3,000 and R. J. Kleberg's Too Timely $1,500 for their courage and efforts.

First leg of the famous Spanish trail, linking Los Angeles, Calif., and Santa Fe, N. M., was blazed in 1776.

Chapter 16

THEY were on the river again, at last. After all they'd been through Penny could hardly realize the sheer luxury of it. To sit back, Cleve's dark head pillowed on her lap while Marie To-ma's brown skilful hands wielded the paddle—what heavenly relief! Only one thing worried her contentment. Cleve's condition.

She bent to whisper to him soothingly. "It won't be long now, Cleve."

His gaze cleared slightly. "Hello, Penny," he said. "Where are we?"

"Almost to Moose Creek."

"Thank God." He smiled up at her crookedly, then lapsed into unconsciousness.

He didn't awaken until the canoe grated on the beach at Moose Creek.

"We're here, Cleve," said Penny. "Do you think you can manage to get up to one of those Indian houses if Marie and I help you?"

"Sure," he said.

They succeeded in getting him out of the canoe. Supporting him on either side, they struggled up the incline to the first Indian shack. Just before they reached it, Cleve collapsed.

Marie called out and some squaws appeared from the cabins. Soon Cleve was lying on a narrow cot in the nearest house. Penny bent over him, bathing his face with a cool wet cloth.

"Dear Cleve," she whispered. "You'll be all right. You've got to be. We need you, Bill and I."

At the mention of Bill's name, his eyelids fluttered. His brown eyes, nearly black with suffering, stared earnestly into her worried gray ones.

"Penny—you've wasted enough time with me. You—must—go—on."

Penny thought about that. It was only twenty-five miles upstream from here to Pierre le Frene's shack. Starting early in the morning she could probably make it late the same evening, providing Moose Creek wasn't too swift. To come back downstream would take only half the time.

Chapter 17

THE Cree girl, Marie To-ma, lifted her paddle, pointing.

"There," she said.

"You mean—the shack of Pierre le Frene?" asked Penny eagerly.

"Yes. That it."

Penny's eyes searched the dark pines ahead along the creek bank. Then she saw it, a low log cabin in the blue-purple twilight. Overhead, faint stars glowing. Velvet-thick shadows reaching from the forest behind.

As soon as the canoe grounded, Penny leaped out with Wolf. He raced ahead of her up the long slope. She wanted to cry, she wanted to laugh.

The cabin of the half-breed was dark. No smoke threaded from the chimney. Penny noted these things dimly as she ran forward to pound joyously on the heavy door.

No one came. There was no sound from inside. Penny refused to believe it. Frantically she called Bill's name.

"Bill—Bill—Penny, Bill!"

Her own heartbeats became as loud as her frenzied knocking. She stopped to listen, and was ringed by such ominous silence that she began again. The door to Pierre le Frene's shack had to open—it had to!

Marie To-ma said, behind her, "Nobody home, ves?"

Penny seized the door-handle. "Someone's got to be here," she said.

THE door swung in slowly, creaking. Penny stepped in the darkness, beyond, calling Bill's name, then Pierre's. Her voice came back to her from the walls. Such utter, frightening quiet. The emptiness of the place reached out to touch her. It found her feet to the rough floor. It made her words die on her lips. Then she heard someone moving about in the darkness, soft-footed.

"Who's there?" she quavered. "Only Marie. I find light."

A match scratching, flaring, a few feet away brought the Cree girl's form out of the void. Then Marie found a candle and lit it.

Penny's eyes swept the one room shack. It was simply furnished with a table, a few chairs, a small stove, a rug whose colors time had faded, and two bunk beds. Both beds were unmade, nests of carelessly thrown blankets spilling to the floor.

"Your brother—he not here," said Marie To-ma.

No, Bill wasn't there. The shock of it numbed Penny's mind. That was the one thing she'd never expected—to reach Pierre le Frene's shack and find Bill gone. Gone—gone where? Yet he'd been here only a short time ago. Somehow she was sure of that. The atmosphere of his presence still clung to the room.

Could it be that Bill had returned so completely that he'd been able to set out for civilization with Pierre le Frene. Or— but she wouldn't think of that other terrifying possibility. Bill was still alive. They were so close, he and she, that certainly something would have told her if he wasn't.

She began to wander about the shack, looking for some sign that Bill might have left behind. An article of his clothing, perhaps. Something to comfort her, to take away this desolation at not finding him.

On the table she discovered it—a note addressed to Pierre, but open for anyone to read.

"I stopped by while you were away hunting, and found your patient very ill. He needs more care than you can give him here, so I have taken him to Fort St. John. He thanks you for your kindness, and will send you money."

The name hastily scrawled at the bottom of the sheet was—Constable Rennick, R.C.M.P.

GRATITUDE that Bill was in good hands mingled with new anxiety for him. He was, so the Mountie had written, "very ill."

"Oh, Bill—Bill!" she murmured. There was no way of knowing when the note had been written, for it wasn't dated. Maybe yesterday, maybe the day before—perhaps as long as a week ago. Another thing, had Pierre returned, found it, and then gone off again, or hadn't he seen it yet? Might he be coming back to the cabin at any moment?

Marie To-ma's voice broke through the jumble of Penny's thoughts.

"What we do now?" asked the Cree girl shyly.

Yes, that was indeed the immediate problem. Penny had come all this distance, made the sacrifice of leaving Cleve alone far from well, for nothing. Only to find Bill, the object of their struggling search, had moved farther on. How far was Fort St. John? Penny sighed. She hadn't the slightest idea.

"We'll have to spend the night here, anyway," she told Marie. "Then, in the morning, we'll shoot back down Moose Creek again."

The Indian girl nodded. "I get fire started."

That was a fine idea, said Penny heartily.

A blaze in the hearth would make the cabin more cheerful. She'd start a fire in the small cooking stove, too. No doubt there were supplies in the curtained cupboard. She'd leave money to pay for what they used.

WITH Marie's aid, she got a simple meal together quickly. Having eaten, she felt more optimistic. After all, now she could rest assured that all that could be done for her brother was being done. There'd be modern facilities at Fort St. John, through which the great Alcan Highway now ran, for looking after Bill. And in the morning she could get back to Cleve and see how he was. They could talk things over and decide what to do next.

Stretched, fully dressed except for her heavy boots, across one of the bunks, Penny was grateful for Marie To-ma's company. It would have been lonely, even terrifying, to spend a night by herself in this isolated north woods cabin. Even so, the far off howling of timber wolves made her shiver. Queer noises she couldn't quite identify came from outside from time to time. Bears? Coyotes? Pierre le Frene returning? If so, how would he like finding uninvited guests in his shack?

Beet Tops and Roots Both Are Nourishing

Young Beets Cooked With Their Tops Are One of Season's Finest Treats

Beets are easily grown in the Victory garden, and provide food of high nutritive value. Their tops are among the richest sources of Vitamins A and C, while both tops and roots provide minerals and other food elements.

The Victory garden programme should be planned to enable nearly every beet seed sown to grow into a usable plant. This is possible by sowing thinly and allowing all plants to grow until those which are thinned out can be used.

Beet seeds are large and soft; each "seed" in fact is a cluster of seeds and will grow several plants. Sow them not over six seeds to the inch in a half-inch drill, and firm the soil well over them, because the seeds are rough and air pockets easily form, preventing close contact with the soil.

First thinning may be delayed until the roots have begun to thicken and the leaves are two inches or more wide. At this stage and as long as the leaves remain tender, a dish of beet greens cooked with the tiny beets will be a delight as well as one of the most nourishing dishes of the season. Thin gradually all along the row, using the excess plants, until the individual plants are four to six inches apart, depending on the fertility of your garden.

At this distance the beets will grow all summer, in fertile soil, and good varieties remain tender and sweet even when they reach several inches in diameter. They are at their best, however, when not over two inches in diameter, and many gardeners plan to use them before they exceed this size, and make succession plantings to provide a continuous harvest. For canning, the small beets are preferable. The harvest from one sowing will extend over six weeks before the tops get somewhat tough and stringy, and the roots grow large.

For canning, a row of beets can be sown especially, thinned out gradually and harvested in one day when they have reached the desired size, and the canning crew is ready to operate.

Beets are easily stored for winter in a root cellar, or in earthen pits, and will keep as well as carrots. There are no serious diseases likely to attack them in home gardens, and few insects bother them. Colorless patches on the leaves are likely to be caused by a leaf miner, against which it is difficult to protect them, but which does little damage as a rule.

Beets are easily stored for winter in a root cellar, or in earthen pits, and will keep as well as carrots. There are no serious diseases likely to attack them in home gardens, and few insects bother them. Colorless patches on the leaves are likely to be caused by a leaf miner, against which it is difficult to protect them, but which does little damage as a rule.

No Agreement On Tax Bill Compromise

His statement came in the wake of an assertion by Secretary Morgenthau that an additional $45,000,000 is needed to pay for the war this year and that the treasury undoubtedly would have to ask for more tax revenue.

Morgenthau reported the second war loan drive was oversubscribed $5,000,000,000, but he said that was only a "victory in a minor engagement."

Middle West Streams Are Still Rising

Officials believed the danger apparently was past at Vincennes, Ind., which was in the path of backwaters which seeped through a broken levee on the Wabash river 12 miles south of the city.

Rivers in Oklahoma generally were slowly falling.

Bituminous operators, critical of the panel report, asked the WLB, meanwhile, to grant a public hearing on the issues, contending the panel "has not adequately and completely presented the facts."

WLB members in Washington said the portal-to-portal demand of the mine workers seemingly was the board's knottiest problem.

PITTSBURGH AGAIN BUYING POTATOES

Pittsburgh, May 24—(P)—Pittsburgh's housewives found potatoes on the market today, "famine" of several weeks ended when 37 carloads were received over the week-end, but dealers predicted another acute shortage within a few days.

Shipments are arriving through irregular channels, they pointed out, and before the end of the week will again be down to "a mere trickle" of a few cars daily.

While today's supply is far above the normal average of 20 to 25 cars, the potatoes will be quickly taken to fill empty storage bins, they said.

MRS. TAFT TO LIVE BESIDE HER HUSBAND

Washington, May 24—(P)—The body of Mrs. William Howard Taft, wife of the 27th president of the United States, will be buried tomorrow beside that of her husband in the Arlington National cemetery.

She was credited by friends with having been the political mentor who urged her husband on through all the steps that led to his nomination and election as president.

Later Mrs. Taft saw her husband become chief justice of the United States, and her son, Robert Taft, senator from Ohio.

POST-WAR PLANNING

It is sound and sensible to plan ahead. That is true for individuals as well as nations. YOU should have a post-war financial plan, and it should include a substantial bank balance to provide cash for emergencies or necessary readjustment to peace times. Why not start making regular deposits in a bank account?

Used "B" Gas For Fishing Is Picked Up

Harold Brocius and four other anglers from Mayport, Clarion county were picked up yesterday while they were fishing for carp in the Conewago creek. The puntette had driven to Warren from their home and had parked their car at the foot of Oak street. Investigation was made by the police and the information was received that the men had driven 2 miles to this city for the days angling.

A check-up showed that Brocius possessed a "B" card from the gas rationing board. The police will return the case to the OPA and what action will be taken is not known here.

Checks were made in this section Saturday night by a representative of the OPA (whether more than one operator was here is not known) and there may be some surprises for the folk who drove their cars to the carnival and other amusement places.

The ban on pleasure driving is to be enforced more stringently than it was before and the latest information is that truck, bus and taxi-cabs will have their mileage cut 40% in the eastern states. No decision has as yet been made relative to the extension of the pleasure ban to the mid-continent section of the United States.

Smethport Shopper Awarded Bond By Metzger-Wright Co.

Saturday was a big day at Metzger-Wright's when the 47th Anniversary Sale came to a close, with over two thousand customers taking advantage of the special values offered on this last day.

The $25 War Bond was awarded to Mrs. Bertha F. Digel of Smethport, Pa., who held the number 3728 which corresponded to the posted number.

In the Lilac Tournament which ended at noon on Saturday were found many entries and it was hard for the judges to choose between them. Mrs. Richard Evans was awarded the prize for the largest bunch of all purple lilacs. Mrs. Leslie Wolfe for the most attractive arrangement of purple and white lilacs, and Mrs. Marshall Mathis for the purple lilacs with other flowers. The prize in each one of these classifications is $5 in merchandise or $3 in cash.

The winners of the salespersons contest, the Lilac Marathon, will not be determined until later in the week when all the sales slips have been audited.

W. H. Wright, manager and vice president, stated that this sale had been a success from every viewpoint and he thanks the friends and customers who made it so.

Jasper Shepard Honored at Dinner Held Friday Evening

Nearly 40 members of the Red Cross First Aid Instructors' Group and invited guests gathered in the YWCA activities building Friday evening for a dinner which honored Jasper Shepard, first aid instructor, who will answer the call for service in the armed forces in the near future.

Decorating the long table were miniature military figures, first aid scenes, medical dressing station and place cards bearing small flags.

Miss Frances Ekey, chairman, acted as toastmaster and group singing was led by Mrs. Alice N. Correll, with Miss Mary Maniakas at the piano. Mrs. Warren M. Stone gave the invocation which preceded the serving.

Welcomed as special guests were C. J. Cray, chairman of the Warren County Red Cross Chapter; Mrs. J. R. Shepard and Mrs. Sue Willard. In a few brief remarks, Mr. Cray spoke of the immense parade that might be formed were all the phases of Red Cross membership in which even the present program might be enlarged. To conclude, he paid tribute to the work of the director and presented to him a framed certificate of appreciation from the National Red Cross.

Abe Martin, president of the group, expressed appreciation for efforts of the dinner and program committee and the work of the entire group during the year before presenting to Mr. Shepard a gift from his fellow workers.

In his response, Mr. Shepard spoke of many amusing incidents connected with first aid teaching and the club's experiences and presented Harold Bush, chosen at a recent meeting and approved by the Red Cross as his assistant and successor as director. Mr. Bush asked the continued cooperation that has developed the first aid program to its present status that the retiring director might return to find it an even bigger and better group.

Adjourning to the parlors, the guests were then entertained with a program which included several dance numbers by pupils of Katharine Dawn Williams' Studio. These young people were Phoebe Jewell, Nancy Gracinas and Martha Ann Edwards. Interspersing their dances were two vocal numbers by Mrs. Harry Drivas and concluding the program was some well-chosen advice to the honored guest from the pages of "See Here, Private Hargrove," given by Mrs. Georgia Carpenter.

Miss Ekey announced the regular meeting of the group, with election of officers, would be postponed one week because of the special class being held five nights this week and would take place on June 4.

Legion Poppy Day Next Saturday Plans Are Complete

In her remarks at the "Dedication Day" tea at the Legion Home on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. K. W. Davis, wife of one of the first commanders of the Chief of Planter Post, touched upon many phases of the unit's work which are aided through the annual Poppy Day sales.

This sale, always held on the Saturday preceding Memorial Day, provided funds for rehabilitation work at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home in Erie, at Aspinwall, at Coatesville, the South Mountain Sanatorium and at the Perry Point Hospital in Maryland, where 225 Pennsylvania veterans are taken care of.

Mrs. Davis spoke, also, of the child welfare program of the auxiliary, showing that $31,617 was expended in 1942 for the care of 16,407 children.

She stated that under the Americanism program, $600 was given to Boy Scout troops; school medals for outstanding leadership and citizenship were given to 1,149 girls of the eighth grade and $1,000 was contributed to junior baseball throughout the state.

On Poppy Day last year 1,140,450 poppies, made by veterans at five hospitals and one home, were sold. Twice weekly the auxiliary hospital chairman visited these hospitals to give out materials for making the little flowers and to pay for work already done.

The reaction of the public was cordial, undoubtedly helped by the American Legion's ruling that proceeds of the poppy sale might be used not only for their own veterans and their families, but also for the veterans of the present war and their families; with first consideration given those killed or wounded in the line of duty.

The speaker stated that ten percent of the local poppy sale is sent to the department for rehabilitation and child welfare work where there are no Legions posts and 90 percent is retained here for local relief work.

In concluding, Mrs. Davis called attention to the auxiliary's purchase of a Red Cross mobile unit and its bond drive or purchase of a submarine. In this campaign, the amount of $6,245,792, issue price, was raised, sufficient for two submarines.
